View many properties

Yes, you no doubt have a dream property in mind, but expand your house-viewing list to more than just one or two places. See as many properties as you can in your preferred location and identify the pros and cons of each. Expand your search a little further from your preferred location if necessary, to give yourself more options. Seeing a lot of houses will help you gauge what a fair price is when it's time to buy and also help you to understand your likes and dislikes.
